

What do members mean to RideAbility?

Members mean RideAbility will be around in the future: it's that simple.

RideAbility was incorporated as a "membership-based" non-profit organization. The size of our membership base gives credibility to our organization, as seen by financial institutions, United Way, VFWs, Legions, Lions clubs, other community organizations and the public in general.

Members can call special meetings and give direction to the future of RideAbility. As we continue to grow, members take on an important role in shaping the future policy, procedures, activities, events and projects of the organization. RideAbility enjoys the heartfelt volunteer efforts of many wonderful people. Just as volunteers are critical to the implementation of the programs in RideAbility, member's voices are what continue to create and shape each and every class and program for today and tomorrow.

Members are invited to schedule a presentation at a RideAbility Board of Directors meeting to share their experiences with RideAbility and help the program to grow.

RideAbility membership is requested for clients and volunteers, but not required; it simply gives you a voice in the future and offers an opportunity to financially support the programs you enjoy.

The funds from our membership drive help to give financial stability to the program.
